

The School of Medicine faculty has established policies and procedures in compliance with the Accreditation Standards of the Liaison Committee on Medical Education. Policies on professional standards have been adopted by the School of Medicine in place of IU Code of Student Ethics, Parts II, III, and IV. Students should refer to the following resources, available in the Dean's Office for Medical Student Affairs, for additional information regarding academic and professional standards: School of Medicine Bulletin; IU Code of Student Ethics, Parts I and V (the School of Medicine is exempt from Parts II, III, and IV in accordance with Faculty Council and Board of Trustees action on May 4, 1990); and the Indiana University Academic Handbook. Assessment of student achievement of academic and professional standards is an academic decision; therefore, legal representation for any party is not permitted during faculty consideration.
